

PR Marketing, LLC is proud to host local breast cancer survivors for an exclusive magazine photo shoot and feature story in reviewit Magazine on September 2! I have attached details on our local heroes being honored and all of the work going into the day. Please join us in celebrating these kick-butt women!

Pretty & PINK

THE WOODLANDS, Texas – Together with their partners, PR Marketing, LLC is helping to make local breast cancer survivors feel beautiful again. Six local women will be treated to hair, make up, and a glamorous day in the studio to take photos and be interviewed for an exclusive spread in reviewit Magazine.

In honor of Breast Cancer Awareness month, the local marketing and advertising firm decided that it was time to celebrate women that have fought the disease head-on. In a country where one in eight women will be diagnosed with breast cancer, survivors of the disease are all around us.

“We wanted to give something back to the women whose inspiring stories are so often overlooked,” said Monette Smith, CEO of PR Marketing, LLC/PR Luxury Media. “What better way is there to do that than to give them a luxurious day where they are the star of the show?”

That is exactly what PR Luxury Media set out to do when they sat down to plan a day of glamor and luxury for local breast cancer survivors. The firm reached out to hair stylists and make up artists in the community, many of which were excited to donate their time. The Breast Cancer Charities of America and community members nominated survivors, and the date was set.

The women honored, local heroes in their own right, will be given the chance to shine, and a platform to tell their stories. Through the efforts of PR Marketing, LLC/PR Luxury Media and their partners, the fun and fabulous day will bring joy to some of the toughest women in the community.
